Welcome to ALLNet, the weekly E-bulletin for the Association for Language Learning!

Welcome to the Language Zones!

What are the Language Zones?

Primary languages for all:

Find out more about the online, local and national support that we offer.

Join us!

We exist to support and represent teachers: get ALL Joined Up and join us now!

These are our five online language publications (formerly printed journals): Francophonie, Deutsch Lehren und Lernen, Rusistika, Vida Hispánica and Tuttitalia, which have been online since 2012, plus new and specially selected archive content - an entirely interactive and interconnected archive on language teaching practice. They also contain networking and information areas for each language: for cultural information, discussion, news and updates.

Where are the Language Zones?

The Language Zones are housed within our ALL Members' Area, and are only available to members of ALL. You can log on to the Language Zones here. (NB: If you have problems logging in, please contact us at info@all-languages.org.uk / 0116 229 7600 for assistance).

What's new on the Language Zones?

We've been working hard over the summer to bring you new material!

- There are now new issues of Tuttitalia and Rusistika, as well as Francophonie, Deutsch Lehren und Lernen and Vida Hispánica, which came out in July 2015. Read about the Russian Soul, teaching Italian through art at an Australian primary school, delivering a course of Italian for musicians, and much more!
- We've also added archive material from our print journals related to current themes, and will add more over time - and you'll find an archive of information about previous themes of the fortnight in the ALL Language Zones section.
- You can also find extended versions of articles from Languages Today magazine, such as Linguistics in and beyond the languages classroom, events & festivals in French, Spanish and German speaking countries, and project updates - also in the ALL Language Zones section.

We would like to thank the editors and reviews editors of the zones for their work in collecting and editing the articles; and of course our authors: teachers, academics and other professionals working in languages education who are happy to share their knowledge and expertise for the benefit of the wider languages teaching community, and to enrich teaching practice around the country.

How do I use the Language Zones?

We have created a Language Zones Walkthrough video on YouTube to help you to find your way around, and find the articles and information that you need: it includes guidance on getting in and around the Language Zones, taking part in discussions and finding the information you need. You can download the presentation here, and watch the video here.

How do I get involved in the Language Zones?

- Interact with the Language Zones: Please share your thoughts, ideas and comments on the articles and discussions, and respond to those made by others.
- Let us know what you think! This is your resource, and is a valuable way of sharing ideas and best practice with colleagues around the country - so please get in touch with your ideas.
- Contribute to the Language Zones: We're always looking for authors, peer-reviewers and resource reviewers for the Language Zones - if you would like to help, please get in touch with us!
