

Join the Revolution: thinking differently about your MFL Scheme of Work

In light of the new KS3 curriculum departments have the opportunity to explore their creativity. However, the concept of moving away from the text book can be a scary proposition. This course will outline a range of effective practices to explore in order to develop content with other departments to extend the scope of languages across the entire school.

The tutor will look at ways to introduce a range of ICT tools to enhance learning based on pedagogy rather than whim and of finding new ways to make your pupils proud of their work. The aim of the course is to encourage pupils to think and allow them to be creative and take greater responsibility for learning.

Who should attend?

Heads of MFL, as well as MFL Teachers looking for further creative ideas and approaches.

The aims of this course are to:

- Explore creative approaches to your MFL Scheme of Work
- Learn about effective ICT tools to enhance learning
- Analyse ways in which PLTS can be embedded in the Scheme of Work
- Make the most of your Private Learning Network - constant CPD on your doorstep

About the tutor

Chris Fuller is a Spanish teacher and educational consultant who has experience of teaching pupils aged from 3 to 18 years old. However, his research into finding ways to extend pupils' learning beyond the classroom walls - and his experiments with ICT tools such as blogs, podcasts and even mobile phones - resulted in him being asked to present at several national events such as The Language Show.

He was a SSAT Lead Practitioner in 2008-09, served on the A.L.L. Spanish committee from 2006 until 2009 and is currently an ambassador for MYLO and a trainer for Links into Languages. Chris is passionate about allowing both teachers and pupils to be creative, and to think differently about the way we approach MFL in the new curriculum.
