

Dear language enthusiast,

The Association for Language Learning (www.all-languages.org.uk), the major UK association for teachers of foreign languages, publishes a termly magazine called Languages Today which is distributed to around 5,000 teachers of languages across Britain.

Our May 2012 Issue will be a Music special issue; where we will be reporting on some of the work currently being done in schools to combine music and language learning. For this issue, we would really like to hear from people involved in the music industry about their own capability in languages and their views on languages and language learning.

We would be most grateful if you could complete the short questionnaire below - you can use one of these four languages, or indeed any other language you feel comfortable with. For the latter we would need a short translation back into one of the four languages below so we know what has been said!

Please send your answers back to me wendyn@all-languages.org.uk as soon as possible, with, if at all possible, a colour photograph of yourself for inclusion in the magazine. If you'd like to see a copy of our magazine, please contact me on the same email address.

Thank you very much for your help!
